This version suffers from a lack of structure, making it difficult for a customer to actually use it to order food.

Poor Information Hierarchy: All the text is clumped together without clear headings. The eye doesn't know where the "Starters" end and the "Main Course" begins.

Lack of Essential Data: There are no prices. A menu without prices creates anxiety for the customer and is functionally incomplete.

Cluttered Imagery: The photos are scattered randomly. Some overlap the text, and others are placed in the middle of lists, breaking the reading flow.

Inconsistent Alignment: Some text is left-aligned, some is centered, and the spacing between lines is uneven. This makes the brand look unprofessional and "amateur."

Missing Contact Info: There is no address, phone number, or social media handle, making it impossible for a customer to find the restaurant or order for delivery.

This version follows professional graphic design principles to create a seamless user experience.

Clear Categorization: The use of bold headers (Starters, Urban Special Pizzas, etc.) and a vertical divider line helps the user scan the menu quickly.

Price Transparency: Every item has its price clearly listed to the right. This builds trust and makes the decision-making process easier for the guest.

Strategic Use of Space: The images are moved to the left margin. This keeps the "visual weight" balanced without interfering with the readability of the text.

Brand Identity: The logo is prominent at the top right, and the contact details (Instagram, Phone, Address) are placed at the top and bottom, creating a complete "brand package."

Typography & Contrast: The font is clean and consistent. Using different weights (Bold for headers, Regular for items) creates a visual "pathway" for the eyes to follow.
